Note that all of the above are driver(s) that I have no way of knowing if they are correct. I need help with this. I have the drivers I need and I can supply the hardware used, I just need this machine to work properly. Another Note - there is a space between the second zeroes A: TL;DR: Remove any Microsoft automatic driver updates, replace with the driver disc, reboot, and install the latest drivers. No need to contact Microsoft. The machine you describe was purchased in 1998. See the bottom of this answer for a discussion of what you need to do to obtain the proper drivers. This answer is intended to provide a practical solution to a solved problem. I have tried the Recommended Solutions, the Microsoft Fix it, and Microsoft KB articles for your machine without success. And, worse yet, I've done all of that and the machine still doesn't work. You haven't described enough of your problem, and you haven't done enough research to make any useful suggestions. I'm leaving this answer here because I understand enough of the system to make sense of the data you have given, and I want to make it clear what you need to do in the future. If you need better advice, I suggest starting with a question 1cb139a0ed
