The only way I'm able to do this is by adding a click event to each button in the navigation bar. I would like to know if there's a way to detect click event on the navigation bar, without having to add a click event to each button. Thanks in advance! A: You can register a function that will handle clicks on the navigation bar. @HostListener('click', ['$event']) onNavBarClick($event){ // code here } The cellular basis of oocyte and cumulus cell development. The cumulus oophorus, a branched gelatinous cell mass that encases a mammalian oocyte, regulates oocyte growth and development by providing nutrients, and a physical and electrostatic barrier to penetration by sperm. This review examines cumulus development and communication, focusing on the cellular interactions involved. Cumulus formation is initiated and expanded by oocyte-derived factors secreted by granulosa cells. The earliest recognizable cumulus cells are associated with proliferating oocytes, and it is likely that this association represents a growth phase of the cumulus cells. The molecular signals and oocyte-derived factors controlling cumulus expansion are reviewed, with special emphasis on gap junctional communication in the cumulus. This process is discussed in terms of the roles of soluble molecules, extracellular matrix assembly, and intercellular adhesion. Finally, the regulation of cumulus cell differentiation is examined, with emphasis on the potential role of cumulus cells in inhibiting cytoplasmic maturation of the oocyte.Q: Search option in navigation bar I want to display a list in my sidebar in my website (navigation bar) showing different articles from a query like Google. That list must be filtered by the search option. Is there a plugin or I have to create a list and add each article? I'm using WordPress
