If youd like to get involved please read this wiki entry over at the Z.Nodes.The.Pascal.Fusion.Project wiki page. For a more powerful search and sort capability you may want to take advantage of the structured data search or do a sql search over the raw data. But the wiki isnt designed as the portal to the data set and so may not be suitable for that, especially if you only want to get at the data dump and be done with it. In that case use the raw data items and search page. You need to note down any problems that might stop your team from taking pride in their actions. Keep the document simple and take a few minutes a week to open it. You wont lose what you learn by not doing this, because you are still getting the results you want. You can also talk to people about these issues so you wont feel as if you are the only one having problems with your team.
