I've read that the new version can be installed by using the bios_decode.bin file but it does not work. I've also tried to install the new drivers using the APM file from Faddie's official site but it could not be installed. What do I do now? A: You need to load the drivers into the NOR Area. You can do that using an Operating System, such as Windows.

Heterodyne beam deflection for pulsed (100)Y -Beam deflection for pulsed (100)X heterodyne interferometry Beam deflection is an important consideration for the FIZ (Heterodyne Interferometer of the Extremely Small) pulsed interferometer being developed at Yonsei University, Seoul, Korea. To assist in achieving this, a heterodyne technique for beam deflection has been developed. This technique uses a looped heterodyne interferometer with a (100)Y beam deflecting the (100)X beam. The looped heterodyne interferometer yields both sides of the carrier fringe without requiring a small beam blocking filter in the path of the heterodyne beam. Furthermore, a beam deflection in one of the heterodyne arms can be converted to a full-width-at-half-maximum beam deflection in the other heterodyne arm. The power that is delivered to the various optics was reduced to achieve an acceptable total power at the detectors.

roblasts and fibroblasts upon stimulation of TLR3 by poly I:C or stimulation of TLR4 by LPS, clearly confirms our results. Moreover, stimulation of TLR3 or TLR4 by different ligands (LPS, poly I:C) has previously been demonstrated to induce co-expression of and co-localization of the TLR-specific adaptor molecules TRIF and TRAM
